DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hara et al (5007822) in view of Siegrist et al (5855829).

Hara teaches two cylinders (1, 2) for the injection units that are in parallel (Fig. 2) and are in nozzle touch with the stationary plate (3). The two injection units appearing to be the same type and design, thereby the one of ordinary skill in the art can determine the values of the injection units being substantially equal.

Hara fails to teach two nozzle touch rods having one end fixed to the die plate, nut pieces and ball screw shaft, and servomotors.

Siegrist teaches rods (9) that are fixed to the plate (11), having ball nuts (7) on the touch rods that are attached to the heating cylinder unit (2), the drive motor (22) for driving and rotating. Siegrist teaches one drive motor and two servomotors would have a multiplied effect in driving and rotating.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Hara with the nut pieces, rods, and servomotor as taught by Siegrist because it allows for the injection nozzle to be driven free of shock into engagement with the mold (Abstract).

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Yoshida (5431554), Yukihiro (5219586), Nagasaka (4699581), Schaffer (6936214), Tsai (2002/0110618).
